

A Realistic Example of a Post Member Approaching a Local Business Owner

Tim is a member of the local VFW Post and is familiar with the Monthly Donation Program offered by Empower Processing and the VFW Foundation. He realizes this program will benefit his Post, so he wants to get his community involved. He goes to a favorite local restaurant and gets the name of the owner/manager. Tim knows that the program will save the business money, plus give a generous donation to his VFW Post when the business chooses to use Empower as their credit card processor. He mentions guaranteed savings for the business plus support to the VFW Foundation. All Tim has to do now is give the business' name and a contact person name to Empower and Empower will do the rest. A brief conversation and an exchange of information is all that has to take place. Tim then calls or emails Empower with the Business name and contact person. At this point Tim's work is complete. When the business owner switches to Empower Processing, Tim knows that every time a customer uses their credit/debit card at the restaurant, a donation is being made to his local VFW Post and to the National VFW Foundation! Now that's time well spent!
